FANTASTIC READ! This book was filled with intense drama and unpredictable twists and turns.

When I expected things to go left...they went right but I LOVED it. Dawn & Autumn were something else but what I enjoyed most was their strength of character. Autumn was not hearing or having what Wilson was handing out. Yet, she still had to check herself in how she handled certain situations because Dawn wasn't about to let Autumn run her life. Forgiveness is a strong theme in this book not so sure at that age I would have been so forgiving and the parts dealing with Lupus hit very close to home. I can't emphasize enough how much I enjoyed reading Dawn & Autumn's story and can't wait to find out how everything is going to play out!

Author Genevieve Woods has done it again. I have read the series and like the first two books I couldn't put Dawn and Autumn down. There are serious topics tackled in this book from medical crises, domestic violence, insecurities and issues from the past affecting the present and the future. I love how the author uses scripture references that not only relevant for her characters but to our lives as well. Her characters are relatable not over the top. They are real people who deal with real issues, ones that we don't always want to talk openly about. I feel bad for Autumn because it seems like she can't let go of the past and it may destroy her future. And her mother Shayla takes a women scorned to next level. I hope Camille and Karen can resolve their issues. And last but not least I hope Dawn and Wilson can overcome everything they are dealing with. Author Woods please don't take too long with the next book. In addition to buying the book for my collection, I received an ARC for my honest review.

Well, the girls are just spell bounding. The sisters have always been there for each other but one sister was determined to live her life and she and boyfriend saw fit. The other sister has always considered her sister when making a decision that would remove her from the other half of her heart. Their mama is really off the rocker. She feels betrayed and alone. She will do anything it takes to feel the love she feels she is owed. The father is finally becoming the man the GOD has wants and his life is one crisis after another. Will they all learn to co-exist or will their stubbornness tear them apart? Beautifully written and anxiously awaiting next installment.

An intense, thoughtful book that delves into the characters' psyches, as well as a wide range of emotions & problems. Problems & emotions that twins have, as well as fears of rejection, commitment, anger, bitterness, rage, misplaced resentment, intimidation & control, selfishness & vanity, the difference between accountability & invasion of privacy, being secure in one's self, unconditional love, and lupus. And, of course, love. You won't be able to put this book down, or to stop thinking about it! The ending will make you long for the next book in this series! I can only say,

"Wow! What an excellent book!" I received an ARC in exchange for an honest review.

After reading the first two books in The Greatest Love Series, I knew that I had to read this one as well. I am so glad I did! It was fantastic! The way the characters were developed was amazing & we were able to have a glimpse into why Dawn & Autumn act the way that they do. I loved reading the way the characters are constantly forgiven & redeemed. I feel so sorry for Shayla. I would love to see her Redemption story & a happy ever after for her too. Can't wait to read the next book!!!

Genevieve Woods' book three of 'The Greatest Love', "Finding Him", truly does not disappoint. It was great learning Autumn and Dawn's back story and getting a true appreciation of Brock and Wilson's true love for the twins. Wow, my heart went out to Shayla, even though she has been wrong throughout this entire series. I love that we get to interact with all of the characters from the series. I try not to include spoilers in my reviews, so I'll just say the ending definitely caught me off guard.T

I have read all three books and believe this is the best in the series. I was shocked at the turn of events and how they played out. I was on vacation but could not put this book down. I finished it in two days because I was sneaking reading it. I enjoy the interplay of the sisters because of my closeness of my family in certain situations. The mother reminds me of some insecure and possessive people I know. Wilsons father wanting to control his life is very familiar. It leaves you hanging enough to want to know what happens next. The sport should have been baseball because she knocked it out of the park!

I'm an ARC reader but I would and did purchase this book, kindle and hard copy. The twins, Dawn & Autumn, were so relatable, and I most liked how Autumn could see the faults of others but not herself. That's so true for us today. We talk about what she did, what he doing but fail to realize or acknowledge we were or are guilty of the same thing. Another valuable lesson she showed us is that if we're not prayerful, the same struggles that bind our parents can be present in our lives. But if we trust God, he can and will lead us into our purpose and not someone else's will for our lives. Many times we try to do what others want us to do instead of trusting God to direct our paths and give us the desires of our heart. Wilson knew what he wanted, recognized his short comings and sought help. If we surrender to Jesus, those habits we couldn't break, the thoughts we can not remove from our minds, He will make us more than conquerors. Keep writing and blessing us

Genevieve!
